

Be a member of IAAP!

Benefits and advantages

1. Get full Access to 2 online journals: "Applied Psychology: An International Review" and "Applied Psychology: Health and Well-Being".
2. Get reduced subscription rates for all Wiley-Blackwell Published psychology journals and many other journals.
3. Reduced fees for the international congresses organized by IAAP.
4. Be part of a worldwide community of experienced and excellent students, academics and practitioners,.
5. Benefit from of a cross-disciplinary and multicultural platform for sharing knowledge and experience.
6. Be informed about most recent events, the news and trends in applied psychology.

Join the IAAP

Community of Students

<http://www.iaapsy.org/>

Enrich your experience as

Applied Psychologist

Join the IAAP Student Community

<http://www.iaapsy.org/>

Group: IAAP Student Division 15

Fan page: IAAP Student Division 15

IAAP Psychology Student Division 15

Twitter: @iaap15student

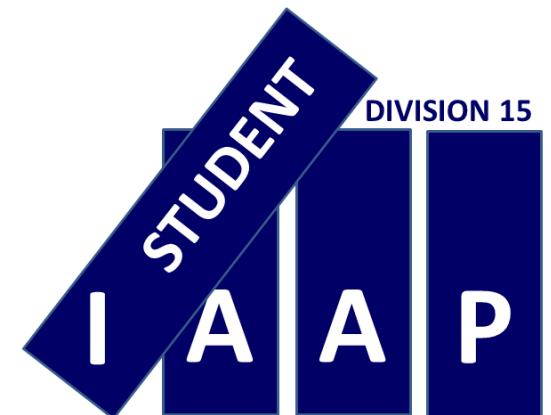

iaap.student@gmail.com

Contact Us!!!

International Association
of Applied Psychology

Division 15 IAAP
Students of Applied Psychology

The Official Network for Undergraduate,
Master, PhD Students and Early Career
Scientists

Division 15

IAAP is the oldest international association with individual membership in applied psychology and wants to encourage and support an international approach to student research and student professional orientations.

MISSION

Support a network of students who share a common interest in international development, trends, applications, and research in applied psychology.

Objectives

- Create a strong community of applied psychology characterized by participation and engagement, collaboration, empowerment and initiative .
- Offer a platform for networking, knowledge and experience sharing for students all over the world.
- Support communities, entities and networks at a local level (e.g. seminars, conferences) .

* Support multiculturalism and a multidisciplinary approach in practice and research in Applied Psychology.

Our services

Community Development

Aims to:

- Develop an enthusiastic international network of motivated, scientifically up-to-date and global-minded members.
- Support a global social, scientific and practitioners' networks within IAAP and its divisions.
- Carry out promotion activities targeted at psychology students, current and potential members, to increase awareness of IAAP as an excellent platform for international applied psychology.
- Revise activities that aim to generate visibility for IAAP and feelings of belonging for its members.
- Coordinate, participate and organize event that promote knowledge and experience sharing among its members.

Communication

Responsible for:

- IAAP student Newsletter
- Creation of a scientific student journal
- Website and IAAP forum
- Social Media
- Promotional Material

Liaison Group

Building bridges and relationships with public and private bodies interested in applied psychology. We focus on local and international student associations, federations, universities, etc...

United Nations Group Support

Aims at supporting and promoting IAAP representatives at the UN and their activities through our website and social media.

Promoting UN actions that are intended to promote psychology (e.g. Psychology Day) .

Join our IAAP team

Call for Students Volunteers

Do you want to be part of an enthusiastic international team of applied psychologists of the IAAP?

Contact us!

Get Involved!