

José Manuel Sánchez Ph.D. Candidate
Collaborator.

José Manuel S. Marqueses is a predoctoral researcher in psychology at Complutense University of Madrid (UCM), hired in the department of clinical psychology with a scholarship for University Teacher Training (FPU) funded by the Ministry of Education, Culture and Sport. He holds a master's degree in General Health Psychology and a University Specialist in Clinical Psychology from the UCM. In addition, he has specialized training in the field of stress and emergency psychology, including the Diploma in Psychological Care in Victims of Terrorist Attacks and the Diploma in Psychological Intervention in Disasters (UCM).

Currently José Manuel S. Marqueses teaches psychology at UCM, and he is part of the research group Intervention and treatment in clinical and health psychology (UCM), specifically the line of psychopathological consequences of terrorist attacks and their treatment, where he actively participates in the analysis of data, evaluation and treatment of victims of terrorism in Spain.

February 2019.

