

HANA JALLOUL MURO, PH.D.
CONSULTANT

Hana Jalloul Muro earned a PhD at the Universidad Complutense de Madrid in the International Relations and International Public Law Department. She studied a Master's degree on European Union and International Relations. She has been a Junior Expert on two European Commission projects in Lebanon for over three years. She worked as a Political Assistant: European Union Election Observation Mission for the Parliamentary Lebanese Elections 2009. She has been a lecturer, teaching in the dual bachelor in International Studies-Politics: Political Theory and Ideologies, Introduction to Politics and Political Analysis I, Department of Social Sciences, at Universidad Carlos III. At present, she teaches International Terrorism: Master in Geopolitics and Strategic Studies at Universidad Carlos III. She is a lecturer at the University of Nebrija where she teaches: The European Union: culture, History and Institutions. She works as an adviser in the technical cabinet of the Delegate of the Government in Madrid. Most of her publications are related to prevention on radicalization, Islamic law, moderate and radical Islamism, deconstruction of jihadist narratives and international politics.

She developed her field of work for her thesis dissertation interviewing prominent religious and political figures such as Omar Bakri, Sheikh Hassan al-Turabi, Sayyed Hassan Faddlalah, Shaikh Smi Khadra, Fathi Yaken...and many others in Lebanon, Egypt and Sudan.

She has participated as an expert in the last stages of the elaboration of the new Spanish National Strategy against Terrorism 2019.

February 2019.

Task Force on Terrorism and Peace Building
International Association of Applied Psychology