Publications

- Vera, chair of this Task Force had participated in this book named "Servicio de Primera Ayuda Psicológica (SPAP) durante la COVID-19".

  Between March and May 2020, the Spanish Ministry of Health and the Spanish Psychological Association created the Psychological First Care Service (Servicio de Primera Ayuda Psicológica-SPAP), a national helpline designed to provide early psychological intervention to those people affected by COVID-19. This service attended more than 15.000 calls and carried out more than 11.000 interventions and 9.500 follow-ups with the general population, healthcare and other essential professionals and the patients and relatives of the sick or deceased. This book provides examples of specific interventions made in this service. It could be found in this link: https://www.cop.es/LIBRO-SPAP2021.pdf
- Task Force on Terrorism Consultants, Noelia Morán, Clara Gesteira and Jesús Sanz together with Maria Paz García-Vera, chair of this Task Force and Rocío Fausor coordinator had participated in this guide about how to help children and teenagers after a terrorist attack. It could be found in this link: AVT GUIA CORREGIDA OK.pdf (epavt.org)

Have you participated in any scientific congress or activity?

Let us know! We will love to know about it and the specific contributions about terrorism consequences and spread the ideas.
