

José María Peiró participated at the XIII Congreso Iberoamericano de Psicología

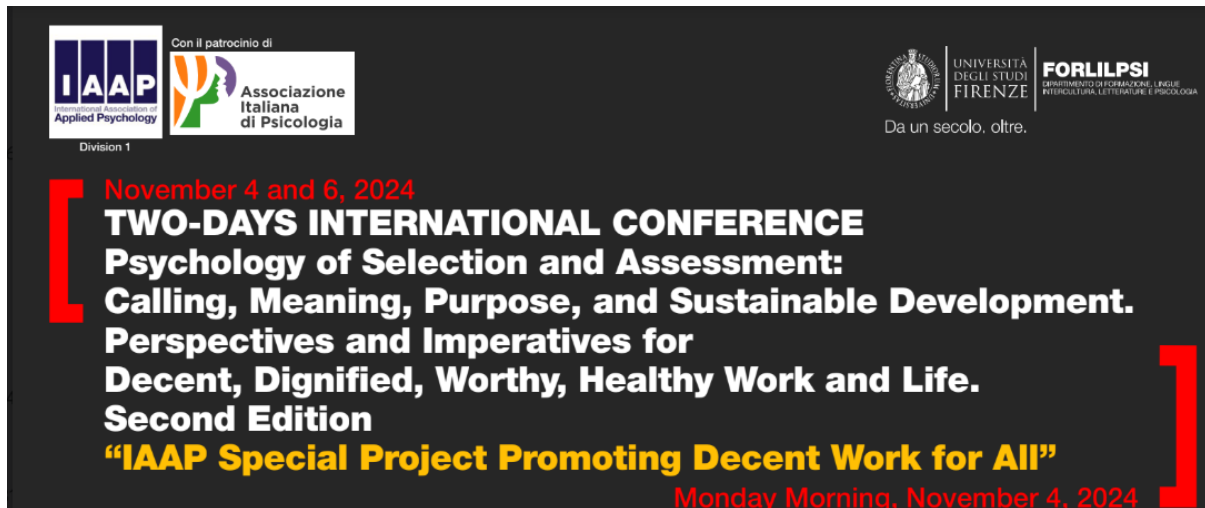

The topic of his speech was LA PSICOLOGIA DEL TRABAJO Y DE LAS ORGANIZACIONES EN IBEROAMERICA. RIQUEZA EN LA DIVERSIDAD Y EN LA COLABORACION. The work and organizational psychology in Ibero America. Richness in diversity and collaboration.

He participated in the empowerment talk on Sem Psicologia é o cabo dos trabalhos, within the framework of the XIII Ibero-American Congress of Psychology (<https://lnkd.in/eAycNSW9>)

The conversation was coordinated by Cristina Pereira and included the participation of Rita Fontinha, Jaime Ferreira da Silva, and Ana Rosa ILO-Lisbon to analyze the role of Work Psychology in the world of work today and in the near future. The important transformations in the world of work and business pose new challenges to psychology. It is important to take advantage of the wealth that occurs in these transformations and also in the research, professional and educational initiatives in the large community of Ibero-American countries to provide a valuable and quality service to workers, companies and society in these countries. The diversity of workers, companies, public administrations, the third sector, self-employment and informal work raises important questions and is a great opportunity for Work and Organizational Psychology. The innovative and creative contributions already in existence can benefit and expand their impact with greater exchange and collaboration between PTOs in Ibero-American countries. The contributions of the Ibero-American Federation of Psychological Associations (FIAP), and especially of the Ordem dos Psicólogos Portugues, which on this occasion organized the XIII Ibero-American Congress, have been magnificent and have made this great meeting an important milestone in the collaboration and joint work of the Ibero-American Psychological Associations.
